

Potting / Encapsulation

The ceramic insulated wire is designed to be "Potted" after winding into components. However, numerous customers use the product without potting. In either case contact the factory for recommendations concerning your application.